

Drugs are NOT recreational.

Child and Youth Care workers help young people at risk to work through their addictions and acting out. They understand young people turn to drugs for more than kicks. Often, drugs are used in an attempt to numb the pain and to forget. Drugs can kill and harm like never before. Child and Youth Care work has evolved from residential care in to an array of services including addictions assessment and treatment.

Garth Goodwin for the Council of Canadian Child and Youth Care Associations