

Every child has potential.

Every child has potential, some enough to do something worthy enough of a public plaque to their accomplishments. This includes youth at risk. Child and youth care professionals strive to develop the potential of the young in their care, exploring talents and skills, finding the resources to allow them to apply these and celebrating their milestones along the way. Holding out the dream can inspire the reality.

